Biographical History

The Japanese American Archival Collection was established in 1994, with the donation of personal papers and teaching materials from Mary Tsukamoto (1915-1998), a prominent Sacramento educator and redress activist. Interned at the Jerome Concentration Camp with her family during World War II, Ms. Tsukamoto brought the history of Japanese American exclusion and incarceration into school classrooms and to community groups, using portable exhibit boards to illustrate her presentations. Through images, letters, stories, and crafts or clothing, Ms. Tsukamoto told the story of racial injustice, loss of civil liberties, and the patriotism of Japanese born and Japanese Americans who were interned in American concentration camps during World War II and engaged her audiences in discussion about the U.S. Constitution and Bill of Rights.

The Tsukamoto papers have been enhanced by donations over the years from nearly 300 individuals and groups, such as the VFW Nisei Post 8985. The collection provides valuable insights into the history of Japanese American communities in northern California, particularly in the town of Florin, California from the late 19th century and into the 20th century. The collection contains significant documentation related to the internment of Japanese born and Japanese American individuals during World War II.

SCOPE AND CONTENT OF COLLECTION

The Japanese American Archival collection focuses on the internment period (1942-1946) of Japanese Americans. The collection consists of primary source artifacts, documents, newspapers, photographs, and publications relevant to the history of Japanese Americans and their involvement in the United States. There are over 1,300 single items listed in this inventory.

The collection is arranged into four groups: Small Collections, Assembly Centers, Internment Camps, and Acquisitions not in the JAAC Database. Each series is then organized by the assembly center (i.e. Fresno) or camp (i.e. Manzanar). It is then organized by type of material (i.e. documents). Finally, it is organized by its identification number.
